Pikes Peak Library District subscribes to the database Gale Legal Forms. This database provides access to thousands of customizable online legal documents that are designed for Colorado residents. You will also find a legal dictionary and several articles that explain legal topics.

1. To begin, start at the Pikes Peak Library District’s website: ppld.org. Along the top, you will see several words in green, click on “Research.”
2. Then look for the Law/Legal Resources page in the alphabetical list.
3. On the left, click on the blue box that says “Legal Databases.”

4. Gale Legal Forms will be the first database in the list, click on the title to open it.
If you are trying to access this database from outside of a library location you will need to enter your library card number and PIN at this point. If you do not have a library card, you can always visit any of our locations and use the database there. You do not need a library card to use this database at one of our locations.

5. Once you are in the database, you will see the search bar at the top that you can use, or you can browse through the categories listed. You can browse categories alphabetically, or you can look the main categories listed lower on the page, or the most popular categories listed on the left. Also, on the top left you will find a number of additional tools, such as legal definitions and articles.
6. Here is what a list of search results will look like. The forms are organized by the categories that they fall under. Click on the title of the form to view its record.
7. Here is what the record for a specific form looks like. In the download section you can download a copy of the form in either Microsoft Word or Rich Text (or RTF is a file type that can be read by most word processing programs). In the “Sample” section you can download samples of completed forms.
8. Double click on the type of file that you want to open. The download will generally appear on the bottom of your screen. Double click on the file to open it.
9. The form will open. Click on “Enable Editing” at the top in order to edit or print the form.
