Answer the following questions:

Do you have people in your life that you would consider marble jar friends? If so, who are they? If not, what kind of relationships would you like to cultivate? Is there one area that’s keeping you from having a marble jar friend?

How do the people in your life earn their marbles, or earn the right to hear your story? Identify specific behaviors.

What does it mean to you to be a marble jar friend?